TRANSITIONS

In the last few weeks I've received lots of heartfelt compliments from you folks. Thank you so very much! I truly appreciate all your words of kindness. A number of you have said things like, "I'm really sorry to see you're leaving, but I understand—and I'm really happy for you." It makes me feel loved and valued.

After I announced that I was leaving, one member of the congregation said to me: "I think you're a really good storyteller and I'm going to miss the way you weave stories into your sermons." This came from one of our quieter members and it touched me deeply. I knew I had connected with that person, as I believe I've connected with so many of you. It's tough for me to say goodbye, too. This is bittersweet.

Having said all that, I imagine that many of you have questions. Lots and lots of questions. Let me tell you a little bit more about the transition process.

The first thing I can tell you is that this process takes time. A lot of people have asked me, "When will the church get its next pastor?"

I have no blessed idea.

This process takes time.

Most likely, this church will seek the services of an interim pastor. The interim pastor will guide the congregation through a process of self-examination, while providing all of the typical duties of a pastor, such as leading worship and preaching, moderating session meetings and committee meetings, making pastoral visits, etc. In short, an interim pastor would do most of the things that I do, but there would be an added focus of getting the congregation through the period of self-examination as you prepare to call your next installed pastor.

I'm sure that some of you are wondering: Why can't we just go out and look for our next pastor now? Why do we have to get an interim and do all this self-examination stuff?

The short answer is change: every congregation changes over time. The congregation we have today is not the same as it was in 2017 when I applied to be your pastor. What you need in a pastor now is different from what you thought you needed eight years ago. What's more, the world outside of the church has changed a great deal in that time. The process of self-examination allows you folks to take a careful look at all of those things and make prudent decisions. Having an interim pastor also helps you to make those decisions from a place of confidence, rather than a place of anxiety.

We have a healthy congregation and I expect that the Presbytery of the Coastlands will encourage FPC to seek an interim pastor. That's what healthy congregations do. Remember, this process takes time.

How much time? Typically an interim pastor who comes to a healthy church serves between one and two years, with more interim pastorates lasting closer to two years. Rev. Nancy Conklin served FPC for over three years, between 2014-2017. However, this congregation was far from healthy when Pastor Nancy arrived. She had a lot of work to do to get you folks to the point of being ready to call me.

Still, it's likely that it will take FPC a few months to find an interim pastor. Ten years ago, there were lots of pastors who specialized in transitional ministry. There aren't as many folks who are willing and able to take on interim work. We will have guest preachers to fill the pulpit until an interim is in place. Some of those guest preachers are familiar faces.

Jeff Hatch has graciously agreed to fill the pulpit on the first Sunday of every month until you folks find an interim. That means that you will receive the Lord's Supper from a person who knows you. Jeff has also agreed to handle pastoral emergencies during that time.

On February 8, my dear friend, Rev. Molly Dykstra will fill the pulpit. She's preached here before and I think you'll remember her. You may also remember the Rev. Dr. Mary Westfall. Mary is the Executive Presbyter of the Presbytery of the Coastlands (and also a very good friend of mine). Please engage with these folks after they preach. Molly and Mary understand the transition process well and they will be happy to take your questions.

I have also pulled together an informal transition team to manage worship and pulpit supply, as well as communications with the Presbytery of the Coastlands during the interval between my departure and the arrival of an interim pastor. The transition team includes Sue Craig, Berwin Guttormsen, Julie Heinsohn, and Sandra Whitehill. Please feel free to ask them questions during this time.

I'm sure this article raises as many questions as it answers. There's a lot more to know, but this is more than enough information for one newsletter article. Please, please, please feel free to ask me any questions that come to mind. I served two interim pastorates before I came to Freehold, I understand the process. And I know you. This is a healthy congregation and I believe we have excellent lay leadership here at FPC. Trust that Berwin, Julie, Sandra, and Sue will manage this transition effectively. And remember, this takes time.

Grace & Peace,

Pastor Alan

One More Thing

Did any of you watch the TV show Columbo back in the day? Peter Falk would grill a suspect, and then after the interview was over he'd say, "One more thing..." Then he'd ask the person something that they didn't expect, and usually it was the key to solving the case.

Well, after that loooooong article about the transition process, I have one more thing! I have a lot on my plate these last few weeks, but there is nothing on my agenda that is more important than you folks. If any of you would like one more visit, a conversation, a cup of coffee, or even lunch, please reach out. Please let me know. I'd be honored if you want to spend a little more time with me. Thanks!

Alan

SEASON'S GREETINGS 2025

*"For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish
but may have eternal life.*

*Indeed, God did not send the Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world
might be saved through him."*

Thank you to all who helped out on November 23rd with decorating the sanctuary for Advent and Christmas.

Thank you for volunteering your talents and your time. It is so very much appreciated!

PER CAPITA

Every Presbyterian Church is asked to make an annual contribution to its local presbytery, based on the number of members in the congregation. This donation is called a per capita offering and the amount is currently $40 per member.

To our members who have already made an extra contribution to cover their per capita for our current budget year (which runs from July 1, 2025 to June 30, 2026), thank you! If you haven't yet made a contribution to cover your per capita, we urge you to consider doing so.

Per capita contributions may be made during the offering at Sunday worship, mailed to the church office, or online through the FPC website. Please indicate that your contribution is for per capita.

YEAR END GIVING

As we approach the end of 2025, please remember any year end contributions need to be received in the church office or submitted online by December 31st in order to be included for charitable contribution tax deductions for 2025.

The 2025 Giving Statements will be mailed out prior to January 31, 2026.

For those of you who donate using the online service, you can obtain your 2025 contribution statement by logging into your account on the Vanco website at:

www.vancopayments.com

If you have any questions regarding year end giving or 2025 contribution statements, please reach out to Bill Canning or the church office.

PARKING LOT UPDATE

The construction phase of the parking lot project is complete. However, we do need final approval from the Freehold Borough engineer to open the parking lot for use. FPC submitted the required documents for review and approval on December 3rd. We will provide updates as they become available. Thank you for your continued patience and support.

RECIPE CORNER

In 2011, Presbyterian Women published Heavenly Dishes, a cookbook dedicated to all FPC members past and present who so generously supported PW over the years.

Here, we'll look to share a recipe or two from that cookbook. This month we shine the recipe spotlight on Pepsi Pork. Enjoy!

PEPSI PORK

5 lbs. pork roast                      1 can mushroom soup
 ½ pkg. dry onion soup mix        12 oz. Pepsi

Place pork roast in Crock pot. Sprinkle with dry soup mix. Stir together the mushroom soup and Pepsi and pour over the pork. Cook on low for 6 to 7 hours. The gravy is good served over potatoes, rice, or noodles.
